

BODY!

Nic would rather have J.Lo's rear!

Red-carpet regular Nicole Kidman wishes she could fill out her glamorous gowns better! "I have a boy's body," says the waiflike 38-year-old. "I would prefer to have more curves — I'd much rather have J.Lo's body than mine." Though Nicole probably could benefit from some more meat on her bones, Chicago-based plastic surgeon Dr. Peter Geldner says the actress should let Jennifer Lopez, 36, keep her famous proportions. "Nicole has a very wispy figure. A big booty would not look attractive on her body," explains Dr. Geldner. If the Aussie were to insist, the procedure would involve fat grafting (up to $10,000) — which could be difficult because of her lack of fat — or solid-silicone butt implants (up to $10,000). Leave well enough alone, Nic!

Carmen Electra

Keira Knightley

Carmen craves Keira's cheeks!

Carmen Electra, 34, has a case of Anglo envy when it comes to Keira Knightley, 21. "She has amazing cheekbones," says Carmen of the British stunner. Dr. Geldner thinks Carmen's quest for Keira's bone structure could lead her to solid-silicone cheek implants (up to $5,000) or fat grafting (also $5,000). "It would be like putting a beautiful frame around a beautiful picture," says Dr. Geldner. "It would complement her eyes and balance her features."

Molly Sims

Julia Roberts

Molly wants to be like Julia!

"I have always just loved her smile," gushes Molly Sims, 33, about her childhood idol, Julia Roberts, 38. Beverly Hills cosmetic dentist Dr. Alan Zweig thinks Molly's smile fits her face just fine but adds that a toothier grin could be achieved with gum-reduction surgery (up to $5,000) and veneers to enlarge the teeth and make them more uniform ($2,500 each).
